

Lloyd: Okay, let me ask you this. Why would I have to mention something I think you know? Get your dad on the phone right now if you want to. We can get it out in the open if you want. I'm not going to lie to you. I have no reason to lie to you, Chief. I'm thinking you know you're dad told you, "I told Reggie, you know. Reggie said thanks, and he appreciates the way you're looking out for us." Man, that's what he told me, so what am I supposed to do? Why am I supposed to tell you something I think you know? You know what I mean?

Reggie: I'll make sure you get all that back. I don't know how much it s, I am not going to say it, but I'll make sure you get it all back.

Lloyd: What about the time and the effort, Reg?

Reggie: What you want me to do? Y'all got to (inaudible) get a decent chance like all the other agents.

///

Lloyd: But I'm saying if I didn't talk to you, I would have never done it, Reg. I said if I never knew you and talked to you like that, I wouldn't be in this bullshit. I wouldn't just do this for anybody. I did this because it was a business opportunity.

Reggie: You better come with your best shit.....

Lloyd: We're going to make it bold. But see, Reg, you gotta understand that players make the agencies. Players make the agents. Players make the agents so if we came in – did you hear what I said?

Reggie: I can't understand you.

Lloyd: I said players make the agent. See that's what I was trying to say, so I knew if we came in and we got Reggie, the agency is going to blow up. With Sycuan behind us and all their resources, you're going to have one of the biggest companies ever. You looking at what Keyshawn Johnson and Marshall Faulk and all the other players, Michael Vick, they get their agencies, but they don't have behind it what we have behind it. We got a billion dollar company behind it. I don't want to get into the business, but I'm saying I wouldn't have been doing this shit just on a humbug because I understand how the game goes. I'm an opportunist.

Reggie: I'm eating right now with my girl.

Lloyd: Reg, when you see your boy, holler at me. What's up with the Rose Bowl tickets, man? Can I buy some?

Reggie: I got to – yeah, you can buy some but I'll have to see what the deal is.